> THE PORT OF ADELAIDE, AUSTRALIA.-A COITES pondent in one of the Colonial papers gives the following description of Adelaide, which is becoming a large grain port, ten millions of bushels having been exported from it in 1872-3. "The port of Adelaide is an arm of the sea, stretching up from Spencer Gulf, and which has, by constant dredging, been made available for vessels drawing seventeen feet of water. All this year the wharves have been thronged with shipping of very superior build and size. Some of them have stowed away over 60,000 bushels of wheat, being obliged to complete their loading in the gulf. Grain and flour, to the value of over £1,-200,000, has been shipped hence during the six months. WHO IS THE YOUNG LADY,-In one of the sense tional stories published in a Beston periodical, we find the following, which may interest our readers: "When the people from the wreck had been got on board, the White Swallow was put on her course, and went reeling off eleven knots an hour after ber detention of almost four hours. In two days the resented people had recovered sufficient strength to walk about a little and be much interested in the time when the meals were to be served, and at the dinner-table the Captain of the lost Chernb told his story. His ship was bound from Honolniu to New Bedford, laden with oil and whalebone. When eight days out she had been dismasted in a gale, and became so strained that her pumps had to be kept going constantly, which, together with the loss by salt water of all but a small quantity of provisions, so exhausted the crew, that out of twenty-six people who left Honolulu in the ship, all but six had died from exposure, hunger and thirst combined. men had taken place at Baraness, nine leagues from The lady was the daughter of a merchant in Hono lulu, going to 'the States' to visit ber father's rela-They had been on the wreck twenty-seven tives. days, drifting helplessly about when we picked them up. He then sent for the Governor and Adjutant-General. On his arrival the Governor ordered the soldiers drawn up in line, and then commanded them to ar rest the prisoners, which they refused to do. The insubordination then spread to all the soldiers who were then at the barracks, some forty in number. During the night they procured three cannon from the Palace grounds, planted them at the entrance of the barracks, and refused to return to duty unless their Captain was dismissed. A VILLAGE WEDDING .- On Thursday evening last there was a wedding at Walalua, on this Island, as chronicled in its appropriate place in our paper. Quite a number of visitors assembled from the neighborhood and from Honolula, and the scene was unusually attractive. The ceremony took place in the native church, which was decorated for the occasion with wreaths of evergreens, and an archway was erected in front of the pulpit, where the couple were works and hearts. to stand. Boquets of flowers adorned the pulpit, and altogether the church presented so attractive an appearance, that it is no wonder it was filled on the occasion with a large audience of foreigners and natives, part of them consisting of the fifty or sixty girls attending the Seminary, one of whose teachers was the happy bride of the evening. At half-past seven, the bridal party entered, and the service was performed by Rev. Dr. Damon, who went over expressly for this purpose. At its close another bridal party entered, accompanied with the paster of the church, Rev. Mr. Paikuli, who united in marriage a native Hawalian of this city with a very pretty female of Waiaina. In the matter of taste in dress, the native couple were not far, if any, behind the foreign, and in manner and deportment appeared equally well. Indeed, the audience presented a very pleasing appearance, and from it a stranger would gather a very favorable impression of Waialna and

PARLIAMENT PROROGUED-SPEECH OF THE QUEEN. London, Aug. 5th .- Parliament was prorogued today. The Queen's speech, which was read by roya ommission, was as follows :

My Lords and Gentlemen :- I am now released from the necessity of calling upon you for a further prosecution of your arduous occupation. In bidding you farewell for the recess, I make it my first duty to thank you for the loyal promptitude with which you have made provision for my son, the Duke of Edinburgh, on the occasion of his approaching marriage. THE NEW GERMAN GUN .- The Prussian military ournal, contain ssome interesting information respecting the adopted Maurer rifle, which is being served out to the Guards, and is to constitute henceforth the destructive firearm of the German army. It appears that at long ranges the rifle is remarkably true, but at short distances it requires an exceptionally low aim. Its best distance is said to be 300 metres, o about 250 yards. It requires just half the time for loading that the needle-gun did, and less (as three to four) than does the chassepot. Eighteen shots per minute may be delivered by single men, and twelve shots in volley, but as a rule, no more than twelve and eight are counted upon. The rifle is described as light and handy, darable, and not apt to get out of order. Altogether, military authorities consider that they could not have made a better choice. Italy.
